Since 1924, Rice Music House (South Carolina's Oldest Piano & Organ Merchant) has been dedicated to bringing musical dreams to life. Each year our staff of professional educators teach thousands of lessons in our centrally located studios at the Village of Sandhill. Now we are pleased to bring this same degree of professional music education to your home. With our In-Home Piano Lesson Program, you can avoid the traffic and reclaim those precious moments of your day. Once you select the time and day for your weekly session, you will enjoy the convenience of our In-Home Piano Lesson Program and you and your family will benefit from a structured professional music education experience.

Your personalized education experience will allow you or your family members the chance to develop skills that will last a lifetime. The study of music has been proven to increase math and science scores, self-confidence, hand-eye coordination, spatial reasoning and logic, multi-tasking capabilities and the study of musical pitch has been linked to foreign language comprehension.

As a reminder, student's progress at different rates, even within the same family. There are no shortcuts to musical success. Practicing between lessons is still the best way to grow as a musician. Our program is designed to teach music as a lifetime experience and not just learning to play a song. It has been our experience that many successful Doctors, Lawyers and other skilled professions have a background in piano.

In our initial lesson, we will conduct a basic musical aptitude test. We will use the information gained from this test to construct a personalized lesson program and to help gauge the level of musical growth over the course of study. As a student of either our In-Store or the In-Home Piano Lesson Program from Rice Music House, you will have the opportunity to attend various concert events in the midlands at either a discounted ticket price or for free. We also offer the families of our student's discounts on the purchase of a new or used acoustic or digital piano, and a discount on piano tuning and service work. Once a semester, Rice Music House will provide the student with an opportunity to take part in a piano recital. You also have the option of participating in other music performance and scholarship competitions conducted by various organizations.
